this book traces the development and interaction of these strands in muslim thinking the author is concerned to show both how philosophy and science are related to specifically religious thought and how they have made distinctive contributions to method and discovery the impact of secularisation on the muslim world puts these traditions under considerable strain and it is interesting to define how far this pressure is a productive and fertile one the current century has seen a renaissance of muslim science and philosophy this book sets the new achievements clearly against their historical background originally written for the conference of great religions held at lahore on december 26 29 1896 the philosophy of the teachings of Islam has since served as an introduction to Islam for seekers after the truth and religious knowledge in different parts of the world. The present issue includes several lost pages not included in the essay that was read out at Lahore. It deals with the following five broad themes set by the moderators of the conference: 1. The physical, moral, and spiritual states of man 2. The state of man after death 3. The object of man's life and the means to its attainment 4. The operation of the practical ordinances of the law in this life and the next 5. Sources of divine knowledge.

Social Philosophy of Sir Muhammad Iqbal 1995

This book focuses on the intellectual and spiritual outlook of veteran freedom fighter Mr. Abdul Qaiyum Ansari. Mr. A.Q. Ansari was born in Bihar and devoted his life to the national politics. He was a crusader for the downtrodden and unprivileged Muslim community. As a social reformer, he served the society throughout his life. His social ideas help us to live in unity. He was opposed to M. A. Jinnah's two nation theory. He worked for lessening social tension and ethnic violence. All these aspects are covered in this book.

Religion, philosophy, and science sometimes appear to contradict each other. The deeper reality is that these operate in tandem to provide a holistic appreciation of life. Natural disasters as well as human failings like war and border walls create an emotional crisis individually and collectively. Humanity is going through one of these hysterical phases at the advent of the 21st century. We are experiencing terrorism, global conflict, climate change, economic meltdown, and breakdown of old liberal political order the emergence of a covid 19 pandemic has contributed to accelerating the crisis social distancing has isolated us in bubbles that seem to be on the verge of bursting there are growing signs of the psychological social and emotional breakdown faced by the communities these tough times invoke questions about the purpose of life humanity and our place in the universe we need to reconnect with our soul and be comfortable with the nature of things this book is an effort to help make sense of life and our place in it comparative philosophy and religion can help us to understand the violence and terror that often dominate our world these new creative studies ranging in scope from ancient biblical greek indian and chinese formulations to recent religious and philosophical positions broaden and deepen our understanding of terror and present new possibilities for greater nonviolence peace and true security

Philosophy and Science in the Islamic World 1988 the book consists of seventeen chapters which cover a selection of early medieval modern and contemporary problems of muslim theology philosophy and mysticism this book argues that the terms are never neutral ideas thrive upon terms and travel in history if they are false they go on coloring the understanding and interpretation of other ideas at times it takes centuries for someone to identify them and straighten them and that most of the problems of muslim philosophy theology and mysticism which kept the muslims occupied in early and medieval centuries and then in the modern period too could not arise had the muslims not accepted un qur anic philosophical notions from greeks through christians and others and then formulated their problems in these notions the book argues that the contemporary problems relating to the above disciplines are no exception we are repeating the same mistake over and again seventeen articles discuss 17 main and many secondary problems relating muslim theology philosophy sufism and reconstruction of islamic religious thought to prove the above contention each article reconstructs the problem in qur anic notions in accordance with the qur anic teachings one article examines as a comparative study the christian theologian and philosophers views on the problem of divine omniscience the qur an is the fundamental religious document and basic source of islamic faith sufism is a phenomenon which organized itself into a discipline in the early centuries of islam a great majority of muslims have always believed it quite coherent with the spirit of their faith but the question is where does lie its origin in the qur an first time in the 14 centuries of the history of muslim culture an article included in this book traces the origin of islamic spirituality in the qur anic term shahid the certified witness the verifier and explains its development into a discipline on qur anic grounds al haqq means the standard of truth for centuries the muslims have believed al haqq to be the comely name of god the first article in this book differs with this concept and argues that al haqq is the title used in the qur an for the word of god and not for god god is the descender of the truth the belief the idea the ideology the notion the simile the vision imagination the religious experience or whatever is in accordance with the truth is truth what is against it is untruth all the articles of this book examine on their respective themes how this principle is overlooked and how it has created problems for muslim thought writers like martin schreiner ignacz goldziher r nicholson franz rosenthal harry austrian wolfson all argue that the islamic teachings are predestinarian in nature religious scholars like dr muhammad fethullah gülen promote such views about islam eight articles included in this book differ with this view and define the limits of human freedom in qur anic perspective examining antinomies relating omniscience omnipotence predestinarian verses of the qur an inexorability of the appointed term pre ordained sustenance divine pleasure and divine will etc it has been argued in these articles that not a single person ever born including iblis satan pharaoh abu lahb who is condemned by name as sinner in the qur an was ever born such that it was predetermined in allah s knowledge that he she will leave the world as sinner the most significant thing about this book is that everything argued in this book is argued on the authority of the qur an that nothing said in this book is without the authority of the qur an introduction philosophy of mind is the branch of philosophy that studies nature of mind mental functions mental events mental properties consciousness and their relationship with the brain the mind body problem is sought to be resolved by two major schools of philosophy viz dualism and monism the advocates of dualism are many for the sake of illustration plato of ancient greek philosophy and samkhya in indian philosophy can be cited as two prominent sources of dualism the mind body problem is one of the foremost problems in modern philosophy it starts with descartes who advanced the doctrine of mind body dualism according to which mind was pure consciousness and body pure extension in order to work out the relationship between radically different mind and body he proposed the theory of interactionism which was later replaced by psychophysical parallelism of spinoza leibnitz also critiqued mind body dualism of descartes through his theory of pre established harmony in mid 20th century gilbert ryle in his book the concept of mind declared all doctrines pertaining to mind body relationship to have emanated from a fallacy that he termed as category mistake or a fundamental confusion with regard to mind and body as logically same or similar entities long before ryle's book bertrand russell worked out his analysis of mind body problem in such books as the problems of philosophy 1912 our knowledge of the external world 1914 the analysis of mind 1921 the analysis of matter 1927 and an outline of philosophy 1929 etc bertrand russell is one of the most important and influential philosophers of the twentieth century he is credited to have revived the british empirical tradition of locke berkeley hume and mill in opposition to the idealistic philosophy of neo hegelians of his time he wrote on a wide variety of philosophical subjects including epistemology and metaphysics through a long period of more than fifty years he wrote books in which he kept changing his views resulting into providing a number of theories on the issue of nature of ultimate stuff of the world and the knowledge of it russell came to philosophy proper through mathematics and logic his theory of types and theory of description led him to conceive the idea of logical atoms socrates had an early interest in the scientific theories of anaxagoras who taught the world that there are an infinite number of different kinds of elementary particles atoms and it is the action of the mind upon these particles that produce the objects that we see socrates believed that the senses of the body create difficulty for the mind to think and thus he came to regard the physical world as deceptive socrates believed that his work which he sought to understand through critical questioning and dialogue was given to him as a divine mission and hence was his duty his total lack of interest in material possessions was evident by his being always barefoot and wearing an old cloak the whole year around his habit of going barefoot even in winter showed his power of endurance as well to him the aspiration for virtue was the highest aim anyone could have
